COMMENT #1

An interesting manuscript assessing the diagnostic value of magnifying chromoendoscopy combined with detection of PCNA and p53 in gastric precancerous lesions to increase the detection rate of early gastric cancer.

Answer: Thank you very much for your comments.

Comments

1. Abstract: Please enlarge the results section with some data and p value. The conclusion should be more focusing, the sentence "If necessary, surgery or endoscopy can be considered" can be deleted.

Answer: We have added data, and p value in the results section. The conclusion be revised as your suggestion.

2. A subtitle "Introduction" must be added to the start of the main text. The introduction section is very informative. Good.

Answer: Subtitle has been added. Thank you.

3. The method is reasonable, and the results are detailed and reliable.

Answer: Thank you. No revisions needed.

4. The tables and figures are OK.

Answer: Thank you. No revisions needed.

5. The writing style is acceptable, but maybe some editing are needed to meet the journal's publish standard.

Answer: The format has been updated according to the editor's suggestions.

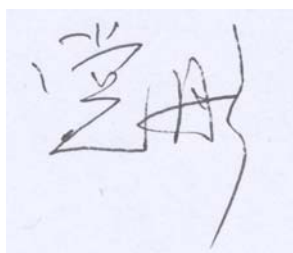

COMMENTS #2

Very interesting paper about the diagnosis of early gastric cancer. Magnifying chromoendoscopy is better than ordinary endoscopy, it can provide more information about mucosal morphology and has a significant advantage in the diagnosis of minute lesions. The English is fluent, it can be published.

Answer: Thank you. No revisions needed.

Thank you again for publishing our manuscript in the World Journal of Gastroenterology.

Sincerely yours,
