Re: English Language Certificate (Manuscript No. 13860)

Dear Dr. Lian-Sheng Ma:

I am writing this letter with reference to my manuscript entitled "Gene expression profiling of MYC-driven tumor signatures in porcine liver cells by transcriptome sequencing", co-authored by Drs. Neil Talbot and Clifford Steer. This manuscript was submitted for publication in 'World Journal of Gastroenterology' as an original research article (Manuscript No. 13860). It has been reviewed recently, and I submitted the revised manuscript last week. This revised version has been reviewed, and edited by all three of us.

I was asked to provide an English language certificate with this revised submission. I can guarantee you that our manuscript meets at least the Grade B level. English is the native language of two of the three authors. This manuscript has been thoroughly checked for any grammatical mistakes or typos prior to my submission by all three authors. I can assure you that there are no issues with the English language in our manuscript. I would appreciate it if you could make a decision on our revised manuscript soon.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Raj Aravalli
