1) Please, review English language, particularly the second page of the manuscript, line 28: inhibit directly inhibits.

We correct the second page of the manuscript, line 28 as follows:

Another important role of metformin that could be involved in antineoplastic activity and thus can interfere with FDG uptake, is its capability to directly and selectively inhibit ~~directly inhibits~~ the enzymatic function of hexokinase (HK) I and II as demonstrated by Marini et al.<sup>[27]</sup>.

1) Dear authors, well written manuscript that need some correction in grammar and style.

Thank you for your help in improving the quality of the manuscript. To this purpose we make some changes in the text in order to improve English language, particularly the grammar and the style. We highlighted all the changes made in the text and we crossed out the sentences that have not to be considered. Finally, we added “manuscript tracking” notes in the second page of the manuscript, according to the writing requirements of editorial.
