

Tuesday, February 17, 2015

Dears Editors

Title: Role of dietary polyphenols in the management of peptic ulcer

Name of Journal: World Journal of Gastroenterology

ESPS Manuscript Number: 15425

Invited review

This is to confirm that thorough English language editing has been made by our coauthor (Prof Mohammad Abdollahi) who is an English Language educated academic and Chief Editor of two English language journals from Elsevier (UK) and BioMed Central (UK) and two books from Elsevier and Springer. The journals links are as follows:

<http://www.darujps.com/>

<http://www.journals.elsevier.com/journal-of-medical-hypotheses-and-ideas/>

<http://mrw.elsevier.com/txe3new/editors.html>

<http://www.springer.com/biomed/pharmacology+%26+toxicology/book/978-1-4471-5624-6>

Based on the essay of Professor Mohammad Abdollahi either as an author of more than 600 English language papers or as the Editor-in-Chief of two highly prestigious English language medical journals, or as the Editor of major reference textbooks from Elsevier (USA), and Springer (UK), I would like to guarantee that there is no linguistic problem within the paper and it can be proceeded to publishing. Meanwhile the whole file has passed through Ginger Premium version 3.5.223 English language checker.

Thank you for your trust

Dr Roja Rahimi

Confirmed by: Dr Mohammad Abdollahi M. Abdollahi