Dear Dr. Paolo Feltracco,

Thank you for using our editing service. Your document, Perioperative thrombotic complications in liver transplantation, is ready to be downloaded and can be accessed by logging into your account at www.aje.com. After you log into your account, you will see your downloadable files and active links in blue lettering. Click on your file name in the "files" column next to the most recent date to download your edited manuscript. Your invoice and editing certificate are also available to download in the "Transaction Documents" column.

Jennifer C. has edited your document. If your submission was a Microsoft Word document, you should be able to see all of our changes and comments using the Track Changes feature of Microsoft Word when you open the file. If you do not see any changes, click on the Review tab in Word and then click on Show Markup or All Markup. If you submitted any other file type, the changes will not be shown.

The document was edited for grammar, spelling, vocabulary, and phrasing. Please review the changes carefully. For questions about your paper, please use the link called "Contact us about this paper".

We encourage you to explore your account, where you can receive coupons for referring your colleagues or providing a testimonial and learn about our other services.

It was a pleasure to edit this manuscript; good luck with the publication process.

Sincerely,

The Editing Team
