Dear Editor WJH,

For more than 17 years I have been revising and editing for publication in the most prestigious international medical journals the articles produced by many of the departments of the two principal universities in Naples, Italy, including the department of Internal Medicine headed by Prof. Luigi E. Adinolfi. I was born and educated in Great Britain, have diplomas in both English and Italian and have worked consistently as a medical/scientific text reviser for the past 30 years.

I have thoroughly revised the editorial contribution entitled “New all-oral interferon-free combinations for the treatment of HCV infection: highly effective and safe. Is it the beginning of the end of the HCV story? The dream and reality” for publication in the “World Journal of Hepatology”.

I, therefore, deem that it is fit for publication and does not require any further English language revision.

I remain at your disposal should you need any further information.

Yours sincerely

Elizabeth McGarry
