

To the editor and reviewer 70848,

Thank you for the information regarding tryptase release in the context of hypersensitivity reactions. It would have been very interesting to measure tryptase levels in our patient, which may have given us additional insight into inflammatory components of his bleeding issues. Unfortunately, we did not measure tryptase in our patient. We've added a short discussion of this on p. 8, paragraph 2.