

To the Editor in Chief

World Journal of Hepatology

Dear Editor.

I am submitting, also on behalf of the other Co-Authors this article:

NEGLECTED LIFESTYLES IN NON-ALCOHOLIC FATTY LIVER DISEASE (NAFLD).

By Francesca M. Trovato, MD, Giuseppe Fabio Martines, MD, Daniela Brischetto, MD, Daniela Catalano MD, Giuseppe Musumeci, PhD and Guglielmo Trovato, MD.

From the University of Catania, School of Medicine; Catania, Italy

The content of the study is original, the aim novel, the focus on a specific and explicit topic, and size of population and period of study are defined.

We acknowledge methodological limitation of the design of the study and others, hopefully minor, may be detected. Nonetheless, we think that interest for Hepatologists and other Readers can be present, because we are presenting an articulated and comprehensive clinical approach to lifestyle profile that may be associated with NAFLD. The manuscript is quite concise, because we attempted to conceptualize as much as possible all the sections of the article, without losing, hopefully, essential detail or specification. We changed the manuscript according to the reviewers' suggestions. We added some recent reference mainly from WJG, itemized methods, shortened the text and refined and conceptualized discussion and conclusion, using few sentences as in the core tips and in the audio summary.

Thanks to the reviewers for their contribution suitable for improving our manuscript-

Thank you for your interest and consideration.

Yours Sincerely.

Daniela Catalano, MD
Professor of Internal Medicine
University of Catania, ITALY

July 30th, 2016