1. I made detailed corrections of the contents of the every text according to the revised manuscript by the reviewers after I read them again and again and got English proofreader's help.

When compared with the original text, most of the sentences were modified according to the revised sentences of the manuscript except a few; the corrections of the description of figure legends were made more concisely rewritten after considering the reference of revised sentences; since diffusion weighted image (DWI) of MRI shows a single meaning of a pair of three images (two different b-factor images and apparent diffusion coefficient (ADC) map), so they can have the same imaging number with discrimination by each index of different b factor and ADC map on respective image.

2. The original manuscript has one more time got English editing by the proofreader according to the request of language polishing.

3. I think there is no need for the Audio core tip for the attraction of the readers about this paper.

1. At the request of the reviewers, I refined the expressions of the manuscript and had the English editing again.

2 - 3. In the present case report, all the relevant clinical and laboratory findings and past medical history were listed in the original manuscript, and the others, not mentioned in that, were unremarkable and negative findings.

4. I have rewritten the last portion of the discussion more concise and understandable with reference to the amendments of the English proofreader and reviewer's comments.
