

Editing Service Confirmation

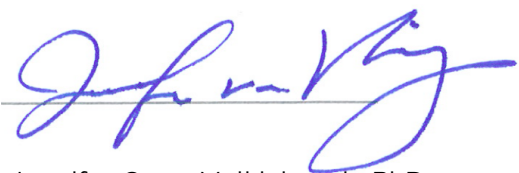

To Whom It May Concern,

I provided comprehensive grammatical editing services for the manuscript titled Chinese consensus of management of tyrosine kinase inhibitor-associated side effects in gastrointestinal stromal tumor by Li J et al., which is under consideration for publication in your journal.

My qualifications for professional editing and writing of scientific and medical articles span over 10 years. In that time, I have edited and written over 75,000 pages of scientific manuscripts (human, animal and in vitro studies) for submission to peer-reviewed publications. In addition, I am an active researcher and have published my own studies in many high impact factor journals, including Nature and the Science family of journals. I am a native English speaker with a PhD in Molecular Physiology & Biophysics from Vanderbilt University Medical School (Nashville, TN, USA) awarded in 2005.

The editing process corrected all grammatical and language errors and addressed consistency and clarity of the content; the authors confirmed that the integrity of the content had been preserved by the edit.

Should you require any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me directly.

Jennifer C van Velkinburgh, PhD
President and Chief Editor & Writer
Filipodia Publishing, LLC

Direct Email: jcv@filipodia.com

Website: www.filipodia.com