

Caption for Image for cover page of the WJG journal

Dr. Chang on the background of H. H. Chao Comprehensive Digestive Disease Center (CDDC) at the University of California-Irvine Medical Center in Orange, California.

The newly renovated Comprehensive Digestive Disease Center (CDDC) at the University of California-Irvine Medical Center in Orange, California is a 30,000 square feet, 3 story, stand-alone building that is dedicated to Digestive Health in its tripartite mission to discover, teach and heal. Its vision is to provide world-class care through innovation fueled by compassion. The center is powered by 32 fully integrated faculty members from the Division of Gastroenterology, Division of GI Surgery, Division of Hepatobiliary Pancreas Surgery, and over 130 staff members; a procedure volume of over 12,000 per year with approximately 30,000 patients visits per year.