Firstly, systematic search of the literature to retrieve if similar cases have been published so far should be done. Thereafter, the searched databases and the detected relevant articles should be mentioned. Secondly, a mini review should be written and the present study should be compared with the already published studies in the international medical literature.

Response- Done. Added a brief review about our literature search. Lines 251-61

It is not mentioned if during the first operation the surgeon performed meticulous inspections of all abdominal quadrants in order to exclude any metastases.

Response in line 163-164

It is mentioned that was done staging CT chest. Why not staging CT, chest abdomen and pelvis?

The Staging CT was done for completion, as the chest had not been scanned when the patient presented and later got diagnosed with appendix cancer. This had been clarified in the manuscript lines 168-170
