“Oncogenic ” is a strong word, specially in molecular biology of tumour, For that reason I suggest replace “oncogenic role” or another appropriated phrase or word that meaning exactly what the authors want to say about the relevant immunosurveillance function of Tc17 in cervical cancer. 2. For the figure 2, I suggest to clarify if the cytokines measures in tissue sample are before to cell suspension culture or not? Cells after cultured (from patients and from blood) can be changed compare to their status in the physiological condition of each patient.

Tc17-polarizing cytokine production, which attenuates the cytotoxic CD8+ T cells development. The paper gives important information in molecular biology of tumor. The paper is accepted if the author checks grammatical mistakes. Sincerely yours
