

Answering experts' comments

According to the review opinions of the experts, two problems about the source of normal intestinal mucosa tissue need to be modified in the manuscript.

First: on page 2 , line 31, we modify the sentence “In this study, we collected tissue samples of the ileal lesions from CD patients and normal intestinal mucosal tissue samples from surgical patients with other diseases.” to “In this study, we collected tissue samples of the ileal lesions from CD patients and normal intestinal mucosal tissue samples from healthy physical examination people. ”

Second: on page 3, lines 6-7, we modify the sentence “Normal control tissue samples were obtained from patients (n= 40) undergoing screening colonoscopies.” to “Normal control tissue samples were obtained from physical examination people (n= 40) undergoing screening colonoscopies. .”

I checked the article systematically again and found no obvious mistakes. Thanks for the opinions of WJG's editorial teachers and reviewers. I will accept proposals modestly and correct my mistakes in time.
