SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Unfortunately, the paper contains few new facts and is full of speculative statements that have yet to be proven. However, with signs of a second COVID-19 pandemic in Europe and the upcoming influenza pandemic in the northern hemisphere, I think the authors' speculation could become important. For that reason, I believe that this paper deserves to be accepted.

SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The article is well written and deals with the important issue of the re-emergence of COVID-19. 1. I am asking the authors to add conclusions and summaries at the end of the article. 2. Despite the fact that the language used does not raise many objections, some of the sentences sound too colloquial and should be reworded. References are sparse and need to be extended. These are a few suggestions that should be cited: doi: 10.1136 / bmjebm-2020-111499 doi: 10.3390 / pathogens9060493 doi: 10.1055 / s-0040-1713152
