Manuscript Title:

Date of Revision:

November 18, 2020

To the editor:

We are submitting the enclosed manuscript entitled “De novo multiple primary carcinoma in a patient after liver transplantation”, which we wish to be considered for publication in World Journal of Clinical Cases.

With the frequency and long-time survival rates of liver transplantation(LT) increasing, the postoperative long-term complications of LT recipients are becoming an important concern. Among them, the new developed cancer after LT are the second complication and cause of LT-related-death after cardiovascular disease. At present, few literature reported multiple primary carcinoma (MPC) after LT yet. Herein, we retrospectively analyze a MPC case with gastric cancer and lung cancer after LT.

Considering the rare incidence rate, outstanding clinical significance and satisfactory effect of de novo MPC in this study, we feel this report is unique and will be of interest to the readers of World Journal of Clinical Cases.
