Subject: Language certificate (English)

The revised version of the manuscript was read carefully by me. There were a few minor inconsistencies that have been removed and the language has been polished by me. Now, I find it suitable in terms of English standards. I don't think it requires any further changes or modifications in the written language.

Dr. Aujla is a Computer Science Researcher who is working at Durham University, United Kingdom (QS World Rank 82). In the past, he also worked at Newcastle University, United Kingdom, and the University of Klagenfurt, Austria. He has published more than 100 original research papers in highly prestigious academic journals with various publishers (like IEEE, Springer, Elsevier, and John Wiley & Sons) in the native English language. He has even published one book with CRC press and two books with Springer Nature in the native English language.

In summary, the manuscript was personally read and typeset by Dr. Aujla and it fulfills the English standards at all levels.

Sincerely yours,
