To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that the manuscript titled “Anorexia Nervosa: Outpatient Treatment and Medical Management” and authored by Frostad and Bentz was edited by native-English-speaking scientists working for English Science Editing. I personally guarantee that the quality of English in the parts of the manuscript that we edited is indistinguishable from that expected of an expert native English speaker.

This certification applies only to the version of the manuscript that I returned to Dr. Stein Frostad on March 12, 2021 once the additional changes/clarifications we have recommended have been made. This certification does not apply to the References section, since that part of the manuscript was not included in our editing, nor does it apply to any other changes that may have been made to the manuscript after our editing and prior to its submission for publication.

Please contact me if you have any concerns about the use of English in the manuscript.

Yours faithfully,

P.J. Kolston, PhD
