

World Journal of Critical Care Medicine

Dear Editor,

I am pleased to submit the answering reviewers document of our original invited manuscript entitled "Precision medicine in sepsis and septic shock: From omics to clinical tools"(manuscript number: 66531) by Ruiz-Rodríguez JC et al., for consideration for publication in the World Journal of Critical Care Medicine. We appreciate all editor's and reviewers' comments. We addressed all reviewers' comments thoroughly and prepared the response, which is presented at the end of this document. All authors listed in this original article have approved the final manuscript and significantly contributed to its elaboration. This manuscript received no funding. All authors have concluded that WJCCM constitutes one of the most promising and innovative publications in the critical care medicine area offering a suitable platform to present this review. We have no conflicts of interest to disclose.

Sincerely,

ANSWERING REVIEWERS

Reviewer #1:

Scientific Quality: Grade A (Excellent)

Language Quality: Grade A (Priority publishing)

Conclusion: Accept (High priority)

Specific Comments to Authors: The authors must be congratulated for a thorough and well-written manuscript on potential for precision medicine in Sepsis. The authors describe all aspects of Omics, cellular and genetic pathophysiology of sepsis and review translational and clinical literature highlighting its potential application in clinical practice. The topic is very timely and attractive for current day readership in critical care medicine. My only suggestion to the authors is to cut down the word count. The current manuscript stands over 6955 words! I would recommend the authors to bring down the word count to at least 5000 words if not shorter to maintain interest from readership and provide a succinct and interesting manuscript. Overall, I would recommend this article for publication.

Authors' response: We really appreciate the reviewer's comments, we tried to reduce the word count, however, given the nature of this review the content would be significantly modified and hard to understand. All other issues have been completed and revised by the authors.
