

A point-by-point response

Reviewer #1:

Thank you for your comment.

Our manuscript reached a Grade B (Minor language polishing) in terms of language quality. Consequently, in order to improve the quality of our writing in English, a professional English language editing company made the appropriate revisions and we reached grade A.

Additionally, in order to meet in the greatest degree STROBE statement checklist for cross-sectional studies, we added a few words in the appropriate sections (the type of study in methods of abstract, the period of time study took place in section methods/patients, and a comment about first limitation in section discussion/limitations in order to further facilitate interpretation of our findings).

Science editor:

Thank you for your comment.

1. We submitted the appropriate language certification, provided by a language editing company as required
2. We added the author's contribution section in the appropriate part of the manuscript
3. We provided the original figure file in a single power point as required
4. We added article highlights section in the appropriate part of the main text
5. We provided the original Institutional Review Board Approval Form, signed Informed Consent Form, and Conflict-of-Interest Disclosure Form

Company editor-in-chief:

Thank you for your comment.

We uploaded the primary version (PDF) of the Institutional Review Board's official approval in our official language as required.