SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

As a letter to the editor, the work does not present any original data but a comment to another work from Zuang and Zong. The later work is an appropriate and relevant analysis of the results in Wilson disease management. I miss some important comments about the methods that are neither mentioned in the Zuang and Zong work nor discussed by Lanza et al. As for the discussion raised by the work, it is appropriate and relevant. The size of the sample, the fact that are all hospitalized patients during the pandemic and not all patients with WD, and the discussion about the patient resilience is relevant and rise questions that need answers. I would suggest to add a sentence discussing what should be the next steps, multicenter retrospective/prospective study, retrospective/prospective cohort study with WD patient either hospitalized of not, case control...
