

Reviewer n° 1:

Dear reviewer,

Thank you for your great review and valuable comments on our manuscript. The suggestions you provided were crucial in improving the quality of our article. In order to respond to your suggestions, below are the point-by-point changes that were made:

1. We corrected flagged language errors and the manuscript underwent a full language review by a native English speaker. (Highlighted in yellow in the manuscript file)
2. We could not replaced the word sensitivity with sensibility because Sensitivity measures how often a test correctly generates a positive result for people who have the condition that's being tested for (also known as the "true positive" rate). (Example: a test with 90% sensitivity will correctly return a positive result for 90% of people who have the disease). Otherwise, Sensibility means the ability to appreciate and respond to complex emotional or aesthetic influences; an understandind for ability to decide about what is good or valuable, espe ially in conection with artistic or social activities.

Reviewer n° 2:

Dear reviewer,

The comments you made on our manuscript were very important in improving its quality and we appreciate your crucial help. Here are the peer-to-peer changes as per your suggestions:

1. We write the abbreviations in full the first time they appear in the text. (Highlighted in purple in the text)
2. We made language changes, as well as reformulating some sentences to make the text clearer and more structured and thus improve the quality of the manuscript. (Highlighted in green in the text)

3. We have added the definition of qualitative testing as requested for the reader's clarification. (Highlighted in blue in text)
4. We added to the conclusion of the manuscript suggestions for clinical practice according to the evidence of our study and guidelines regarding the need for future studies. (Highlighted in gray in the text)
5. We corrected flagged language errors and the manuscript underwent a full language review by a native English speaker. (Highlighted in yellow in the manuscript file)