

06463958: The manuscript "Morphological and Biochemical Characteristics Associated with Autophagy in Gastrointestinal Diseases" presents a written Mini review of a subject fundamental to understanding human pathology. The text is timely and should be read carefully, as it clarifies basic concepts.

Thanks for the peer comments. This article focuses on the effect of autophagy on the physical, chemical and biological barrier function of the gastrointestinal tract, and reviews the research progress of autophagy in benign and malignant gastrointestinal diseases.