SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

This paper investigates the relationship between inflammation and mental health. Before the paper is published, the following changes need to be made. First, the paper lacks key information, such as the title, abstract, and core tip. The authors need to add this information before considering further publication. Second, as an editorial, the authors focus more on introducing knowledge, but there is less discussion that would provoke readers' thinking. The authors should further provoke readers' thinking about this issue and generate discussion in the conclusion.
