

Dear Sirs,

Thank you very much for considering our case report for publication in your journal. We have responded to the comments to the best of our ability.

Comment 1: we have added author contributions to the manuscript where suggested

Comment 2: we are supplying a separate PDF regarding institutional review.

Comment 3: we are supplying a separate PDF regarding patient permission

Comment 4: we are supplying an author conflict of interest statement as a PDF.

Comment 5: we have supplied a set of keywords

Comment 6: the manuscript has a Core Tip where prompted by the editors

Comment 7: an audio core tip has been provided.

Comment 8: an Introduction has been provided before the case report.

Comment 9: as suggested all the references are now bracketed.

Comment 10: the ten comments requested are now included in the manuscript after the body and before the references. We had difficulty with #8 as this was included as part of the literature review.

Comment 11: PMID and DOI were provided in the references as requested but we were unable to find DOI for every article cited.

The additions are highlighted in yellow.

We were unable to run the software testing for plagiarism but I attest to the fact that it is original work. As for title searches in google scholar, it showed hundreds of titles. Ours is a very common title.

Sincerely,

David Myssiorek, MD
