To all Reviewers and Editor:

Thank you very much for your comments, we have addressed to each one of them and the manuscript has been modified accordingly. Also, we have added and updated the manuscript information since new bibliography have been published since our first submission. Specifically, an article about modifying the Japanese recommendations on DIC diagnosis and treatment was published about 2 months ago, so our work has been updated. The article content was NOT modified in any other manner. Language modifications done by a native English speaker are tracked using the specific Word processor feature. Specific replies for all your comments are written below

Best regards to all of you
