Coffee: The magical bean for liver diseases

Ryan Heath, Mihir Brahmhatt, Asli C Tahan, Jamal A Ibdah, Veysel Tahan

Abstract

Coffee has long been recognized as having hepatoprotective properties, however, the extent of any beneficial effect is still being elucidated. Coffee appears to reduce risk of hepatocellular carcinoma, reduce advancement of fibrotic disease in a variety of chronic liver diseases, and perhaps reduce ability of hepatitis C virus to replicate. This review aims to catalog the evidence for coffee as
