Response to the reviewer (ID - 02941657): The authors are grateful to the reviewer for the work done and the appreciation of their manuscript. We agree with the reviewer that antibiotic therapy leads not only to the transition of H. pylori in the dormant state, but leads to the formation of resistant forms. Resistance of H. pylori devoted a lot of work. Presented the review upon dormant forms of H. pylori and their significance in ulcerogenesis are large enough. Therefore, the authors deliberately did not discuss the important problem of resistance of H. pylori infection. The relationship of resistant and dormant forms of H. pylori is an issue that needs further scientific research. The authors have not found in literature of discussing of this issue.

Response to the reviewer (ID - 02372281): The authors express their gratitude to the reviewer for the positive review and special gratitude to the work done on editing of manuscript language quality. All corrections to the manuscript in accordance with comments of reviewer were made.

Authors have read and checked the manuscript. It was made the edits that were highlighted by color in the text.

Thank you for publishing our manuscript in the World Journal of Gastroenterology.

Sincerely yours,
