Australian Guidelines for the Prevention and Control of ...

<https://www.nhmrc.gov.au/about-us/publications/...>

Synopsis There are around 200,000 healthcare-associated infections (HAIs) in Australian acute healthcare facilities each year. This makes HAIs the most common complication affecting patients in hospital. As well as causing unnecessary pain and suffering for patients and their families, these adverse events prolong hospital stays and are costly to the health system.

Vinyl bag cover method to avoid droplet-containing aerosol escape from endoscopic forceps channel caps during COVID-19 pandemic (with video)

Shielding for endoscopic forceps channel cap

Abstract

Endoscopists are at high risk of allowing transmission of COVID-19 during gastrointestinal endoscopy procedures under pandemic conditions. The main avenues of droplet-containing aerosol generated during gastrointestinal endoscopy are the mouth, anus, and endoscopic forceps channel. Although the usefulness of personal protective equipment for preventing COVID-19 dissemination has been well reported, measures to address infected aerosol escaping during endoscopic forceps use have been neglected. Between-contaminated aerosol from the endoscopic forceps channel
