Specific Comments to Authors: The manuscript is well-written, concise and can be quite informative to the readers. It contains all crucial aspects of the issue at hand and the updated guidelines. The topic is of interest and the results are of relevance. I would recommend accepting this manuscript for publication. There are some typographic errors. There are very long sentences. To improve readability, consider breaking this into multiple sentences. The authors are encouraged to proof-read thoroughly the text before resubmission. English must be excellent. Notable strengths of the paper are the current
