SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The authors have performed a systematic review to determine the quality of life of severe acute pancreatitis patients post endoscopic versus surgical necrosectomy. Findings point to better outcomes with endoscopic necrosectomy. While the conclusion could have been founded, the study limitations seems to supersede these. The number of studies are few and the authors also concede that there were inconsistencies in the HR-QoL tools used amongst others. Please use 4 and four consistently when referring to the number of studies. ideally four Revise the study aim in the abstract. It's too wordy when read with HR-QoL
