

This study did not need informed consent from each participant. We did not treat personal information and only aggregated data of the Hiroshima Regional Health Medical Promotion Organization were used.