Dear Editor,

Please find enclosed the edited manuscript in Word format (ESPS Manuscript NO: 12690-review.doc).

Title: LARGE BOWEL INJURIES DURING GYNECOLOGIC LAPAROSCOPY

Author: Kahraman Ülker, Turgut Anuk, Murat Bozkurt, Yetkin Karasu

Name of Journal: World Journal of Clinical Cases

ESPS Manuscript NO: 12690

The manuscript has been improved according to the suggestions of reviewers:

1 Format has been updated

2 Revision has been made according to the suggestions of the reviewer

(1) Reviewer 00505481

-His/her main concern is reviewing a review paper in a journal named "World Journal of Clinical Cases". The reviewer would have expected unusual cases. However, I was invited and asked to prepare a mini review. I can't do anything about the frustration of the reviewer.

-The same reviewer finds nothing in our manuscript to add his/her daily practice. I am sorry about that, however I do not know what the reviewer does in his/her daily practice. At least I may advice the reviewer to reread the article once again, because I had mentioned a novel Veress needle use technique. We recently published the umbilical stalk elevation (USE) technique. The article is just ahead of print. I am sure the reviewer has not read it and USE technique may change his/her daily practice.

(2) Reviewer 01076129 >> main concern is language polishing

(3) Reviewer 00742249 >> main concern is minor language polishing.

The whole manuscript is reviewed. The language of the article is edited by an English woman graduated from Cambridge, UK. She had studied English in Cambridge. American spelling was used.

3 References and typesetting were corrected (Available PMIDs and DOIs were added)

4 We did not highlight the manuscript, because we just edited the language. None of the reviewers had asked for a change in the scientific content of the manuscript.

Thank you again for publishing our manuscript in the World Journal of Clinical Cases.

Sincerely yours,
