Comment) This is an interesting, relatively simple and cost-effective approach. As authors state though, it cannot be applied in tumors located very close to EG junction. The number of cases is considerable. Manuscript is understandable, but not in fluent English so language-editing is required.

Thank you for your comments. This manuscript was edited by colleague whose native language is English in editing company, "American Journal Experts" you recommended. I will attach the certificate of editing. Please let me know if I have to re-edit my manuscript at another editing company.
