

IRBS was considered to be non-obligatory given that patients received the standard-of-care treatment in both endoscopic departments. Additionally, our retrospective research project involves use of existing information collected from human participants, but there are not any identifiers linking individuals to the data.

.....25/07/2015

Athanasios D Sioulas

(corresponding author)