To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that the manuscript entitled “Recent developments in the pathophysiology of irritable bowel syndrome” was edited by native-English-speaking scientists working for English Science Editing (with the exception of the References section, the figure legends, and the figures themselves), and I personally guarantee that the quality of English in the manuscript is indistinguishable from that expected of an expert native English speaker.

This certification applies only to the version of the manuscript that I returned to Professor Magdy El-Salhy on February 13, 2015, and does not apply to any subsequent changes that may have been made to the document prior to its submission for publication.

Yours faithfully,

P.J. Kolston, PhD
