

Study population: Institutional Review Board approval was obtained prior to initiation of the study. As this was a retrospective medical record review, the review board waived the need to obtain informed consent. We performed a retrospective, HIPAA-compliant electronic medical records review of all consecutive patients who underwent endovascular revascularization after liver transplantation.