

Dear Editors,

I am a faculty member and medical physicist in the Department of Radiation Oncology at the University of Toronto in Canada since 2006. I worked in the University of Cambridge in the UK before going to Canada, and had 118 publications in scientific peer-reviewed international journals, 135 presentations in international medical physics meetings and 5 book chapters written in English. Therefore, I am fluent in writing and speaking English.

Yours sincerely,

James Chow
