Dear Dr. Sigal,

If this is an anecdotal report on a series of patients seen in your own practice and/or a comparison of these patients to existing reports in the literature, it is not research and would not require NYU IRB approval. I hope this helps.

Regards,
Dave

David,

As per our conversation, I would like to publish a case report of 3 patients that I cared for at NYU.

All three patients have been informed and provided verbal permission to be included.

The journal is asking for confirmation that IRB approval is not required for case reports at NYU School of Medicine.
