

Dear Editor,

It was a pleasure receive you e-mail.

We report the list of the corrections, point by point:

1. We reported the Running Title: E-EWS/pPNET of the Small Bowel Mesentery

2. We reported the Author list: Zhe Liu¹, Yuan-Hong Xu^{1,*}, Chun-Lin Ge¹, Jin Long¹, Rui-Xia Du², Ke-Jian Guo¹

¹Department of Pancreatic Surgery, The First Hospital of China Medical University, Shenyang, 110001, China;

²Department of Otorhinolaryngology, Fengtian Hospital, Shenyang Medical University, Shenyang, 110001, China

3. We reported the Author Contributions: All authors contributed to the acquisition of data, writing and revision of the manuscript.

4. We have reported Correspondence to Dr. Zhe Liu, MD; Department of Pancreatic Surgery, The First Hospital of China Medical University, Shenyang, 110001, China;

5. We have reported the abstract with no less than 150 words

6. We listed the keywords

7. We have reported a Audio Core Tip

8. We have reported the Institutional review board statement

9. We reported the Informed consent statement

10. We reported that all the authors have not conflict of interest to declare

11. As requested we have included the Comments in the manuscript

12 Thank you for reviewer's helpful suggestions "I believe that the phrases "disaster is a blessing in disguise" and "It turns lemons into lemonade" are completely displaced in this case report. When I read expressions like these, I expect something good to happen. Although the surgery has been very successful, the patient died of this disease, only 3 months after the intervention. I don't think it's a "lemonade" at all".

Author response: I had deleted these sentences.

Thank you

Liu zhe