

Dear Prof. Jing Yu:

Re: ESPS manuscript NO: 25725 Title: Multiple perforations and fistula formation from corticosteroid administration: case report

Thank you for your advision of 24-06-2016. Here are my repsonses to the reviewers' comments.

Comment 1: The manuscript needs an English language revision. Numerous typing errors exist.

Response: before submitting, I have found BioMed Proofreading (a English-language copy-editing company founded in 2003 in USA) for editing the language and got the language editing certificate. I will upload it. However, I will contact the company for better revise.

Comment 2: Pag. 6: eliminate the commercial names of drugs.

Response: I have corrected the names of drugs. I changed Stilamin and Nexium for somatostatin and esomeprazole

Comment 3: The Tab. 1 must be plan better.

Response: the style of Tab is annoying me for a long time too. It is hard to input these words suitable for the table. However, I have tried my best to revise the table. I have cut down some words and made it better as possible.

I have revised the manuscript accordingly and the revised portion is marked in yellow bald and highlight. I hope this will make it more acceptable for publication.

Yours sincerely

Jingni He