Authors: Wan TTH, et al.

Journal: World Journal of Diabetes

The revised manuscript has taken care of editorial comments provided by the two reviewers and one editorial staff. Responses are documented in the following summary table:

Comment	Response	Justification
Core Tip: shorten the section	A total word count is 100.
Audio Core Tip	Done
Section Headings	Center headings such as introduction, materials and method, results, and discussion and conclusion.	Add statements into the section on materials and method.
Abstract's Aim is too long	Shortened
Reformat citation numbers in brackets	Done
Reference Section	-Highlight the last name of the first author for each item. -Insert doi numbers if available.
Reviewer's comment on the link between obesity and type 2 diabetes	Three new references are cited in the discussion and conclusion section. The last paragraph signifies the need to consider a complex set of clinical symptoms or conditions that will affect clinical interventions. In addition, a new reference on diabetes care research, published by Rav-Marathe, Wan and Marathe (2016) is also included.	This review is centered in behavioral aspects of diabetes care, not on the etiologies of type 2 diabetes. However, we believe that multiple strategies are needed to design and implement care management interventions for patients with type 2 diabetes.
