Radiographic and MR contrast agents: Essentials and tips for safe practices

Mohamed R Nouh, Mohamed A El-Shazly

Abstract

With extended and continued expansion of medical imaging utilization in modern medical practice over last decade, radiologists as well as other faculty staff dealing with radiographic and MR contrast media have to be well oriented with their potential hypersensitivity reactions and recognize high-risk groups liable to develop it so as to enable early recognition. Radiologists and other medical staff involved in administration and dealing with contrast media have to be ready to implement prompt, practical and effective management plan to deal with these scenarios should they
