COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

This narrative review with the title “Treating children with Inflammatory Bowel Disease: current and new perspectives” summarizes the current practice in treating children with Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD) and explores the new advances and future aims. This review is organized quite well and will be a good reference to clinician and IBD researchers. I suggest publishing without any revision.

COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

My comments: - a lot of knowledge about the treatment of paediatric IBD, - "summary and take home messages" - it is very interesting, - publishing without any revision,

COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

This is very informative review covering the current therapeutic options and recent advances for IBD with emphasis on younger patients. The authors have mentioned: Figure 1. Summary and take home messages. However there is no associated figure shown - please check. I would recommend to accept this review after correcting grammar and typographical errors and would advise the authors to put it through grammarly software.
