COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The review by Issa addresses a very important aspect of colorectal cancer screening, the screening strategy. The new data concerning Epi procolon are addressed. The authors conclude that the blood tests are part of an algorithm in cancer screening. Comments 1. The statements are clear. However, a short introduction and cartoon to SEPT9 could be helpful.

COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

Manuscript "An Update on Colorectal Cancer Screening: Is a simple blood test enough?" by Lyad A Issa, and Malak Nouredine is a well balanced overview of the different CRC screening possibilities. Authors should change the title in a " Review of CRC screening possibilities ". The current title do not reflect the content of the manuscript. Some more European data should be included: Tepes B, Bracko M, Novak Mlakar D, Stefanovic M, Stabuc B, Frkovic Grazio S, Zakotnik Maucec J. Results of the FIT-based National Colorectal Cancer Screening Program in Slovenia. J Clin Gastroenterol 2016 Aug 22. [Epub ahead of print]. Authors should elaborate more on proper bowel cleansing procedures as a factor of adenoma detection rate... ( Tepeš B, Mlakar DN, Metličar T. Bowel preparation for colonoscopy with magnesium sulphate and low-volume polyethylene glycol. Eur J Gastroenterol Hepatol. 2014 Jun;26(6):616-20. doi: 10.1097/MEG.000000000000093. There are some small word misspellings to be corrected. Otherwise manuscript is well prepared and deserves to be published in WJG.
