

34220-Biostatistics statement

We calculated the proportion of patients who had a sustained virologic response along with exact two-sided 95% confidence intervals using the Clopper–Pearson method. Statistical differences were analyzed by χ^2 tests for categorical variables and t-test for continuous variables with significance defined as a P value less than 0.05.