About the Tracked and Clean Versions of Your Edited Document

We provide you with two versions of your edited document: Tracked and Clean.

The Tracked version shows you a record of all the changes we have made to your document, so that you can accept or reject each change.

In addition, the Tracked version also contains detailed comments and feedback from our editors. Going through the comments will help to further refine your document!

Here is how to view the changes and comments in your Tracked document. If you find the changes and comments look a little confusing, here is some information about the tracking mark-up.

The Clean version contains exactly the same edited content as the Tracked version, but does not show our editors' comments or a record of the changes.
