

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

The undersigned hereby certifies that he has extensive experience in the fields of foreign language teaching and translation, and that has taught courses in these two areas both at the undergraduate and graduate levels for almost 30 years in different Chilean universities.

Concerning the field of translation, I pursued advanced courses in translation in Columbia University, New York and in the University of Manchester, England. I have taught the courses of Techniques & Problems in Translation, Specialized Translation Workshops and Introduction to Translation Studies.

I have done a lot of translation work as a freelance translation, especially in the areas of Mining, Foreign Trade, Medicine and Law for important companies and firms across the country.

I therefore can assure that my graduate studies, ample teaching experience, and extensive translation experience as a freelance translator are proof of my linguistic and translating capabilities.
