

García-Morales et al. Article no. 41111. Response to reviewers

Both reviewers commented on the length of the editorial and recommended shortening it.

In consequence, we have rewritten the editorial, shortening and modifying some paragraphs; especially those related to the general relationship between vitamin D – calcium with adenomas and colorectal cancer and focusing on their effects on serrated polyps, which is the objective of the editorial. We have also shortened the paragraph about the anticancer mechanisms of vitamin D.

As a result the editorial's length is now of 1555 words, more suitable for this journal section.

We are grateful to the reviewers for their help in improving the manuscript.

Marco Bustamante-Balén, M.D., Ph.D.
Gastrointestinal Endoscopy Unit
La Fe University Hospital
Valencia (Spain)