

Answering Reviewer

Delirium after emergency hip surgery – common and serious, but rarely consented for

Running title: Delirium after emergency hip surgery

Louis Koizia, Dr, Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust, St Mary's Hospital, Praed Street, London, W2 1NY

l.koizia@nhs.net

Manuscript NO: 46151

COMMENTS TO REVIEWER

- Rewording has been completed
- Title changed to incidence amongst older adults rather than "Common amongst older adults"
- References added to this section
- First line in the section "Management strategies for delirium", has been reworded to flow better
- In the paragraph "Prophylactic pharmacological therapies have been trialled, but show no efficacy... show has been changed to showed.
- Reference added as per suggestion in "consent" section.
- In the "Paradox" section reference has been updated.
- Anaesthetist have been included in recommendations and conclusion section as suggested